

Food Labelling Requirements Training

The 1-day training enables you to understand and apply the general and additional food labelling requirements. The training has been developed in accordance with Singapore Food Agency 'A Guide to Food Labelling and Advertisement' and best industry practices..

DURATION

1 day

LANGUAGE

English

COURSE CODE

FS-11121

Food Labelling Requirements Training

Course Content

The syllabus focuses on:

- General labelling requirements from Singapore Food Agency 'A Guide to Food Labelling and Advertisements'
- Writing statement of food ingredients and additives permitted under Singapore Food Regulations
- Declaration methods of foods & ingredients known to cause hypersensitivity
- Format of date marking on the expiry date for various types of prepacked food
- Labelling of food containing sweetening agents and special purpose food
- Nutrition information panel for prepacked food
- Prohibited claims on food labels and advertisements
- Use of nutrition claims and health claims
- Checklist for food labels and advertisements
- Case studies of generating proper food labelling

Who Should Attend

- Food importers, distributors, manufacturer, producers, packers and retailers
- Personnel who are involved in food products development and labelling
- Individuals who are keen to gain knowledge on interpreting food product labels

Method of Study

- Online Webinar with virtual interactive activities

Assessment

- Online Quiz upon completion of course

Certification

- Certificate of Attendance will be awarded for participants who are with 100% attendance

Learning Outcomes

By the end of this training, learners from Food Labelling Requirements Training will be able to:

- Understand general and additional food labelling requirements from Singapore Food Agency 'A Guide to Food Labelling and Advertisements'
- Generate proper food product label meeting Singapore food labelling requirements
- Develop proper food allergens advice and nutrition information panel in a food label
- Understand permitted and prohibited claims for use in food labels and advertisement
- Apply self-check on food labels and advertisements before sale or publication
- Interpret food products information based on the details in the food label